

POLICE READY FOR MAY DAY RIOTS

PEN MUTINY BROKEN BY ORDER ENFORCED BY NATIONAL GUARD

Attempt To Tunnel Escape Found When Cells Emptied

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Rigid military discipline prevailed within the walls of Ohio State Penitentiary today.

The backbone of the mutiny that has raged since a week ago Monday night seemed to be broken. Rebellious convicts who have been defying prison authority for days had been routed from their "hang outs" in various cell blocks, segregated, placed in a hastily erected stockade or in other buildings within the enclosure and forced to "toe the mark" under the noses of machine guns and rifles.

The largest military force assembled in Ohio, under arms and for purposes of combat, since the World War, was in absolute control of the situation and there was no disputing their authority.

"The war is over," was the succinct comment of Colonel Robert Haubrich, the hard-bitten World War veteran who is commanding the more than 1,000 National Guard troops and naval militia men on duty.

Sullen convicts did exactly what they were told today. The game was up.

Machine guns looked down upon them from the prison walls and from the roofs of neighboring buildings. Soldiers in tin hats, armed with pistols and rifles and with hand grenades within easy reach, moved them around at will and without ceremony.

None of the convicts was too "hard boiled" for the military to handle. They all looked alike to the top sergeants. Every order from Colonel Haubrich was executed to the letter, and with dispatch.

Ring leaders of the insurrectionist movement were weeded out from their fellow convicts and confined in the old automobile tag warehouse in the northwest corner of the prison yard. It is a barred

SEASONAL CHANGES IN EMPLOYMENT IS SERIOUS PROBLEM

Stabilization Of Conditions Can Not Be Reached

WASHINGTON, May 1.—One of the most difficult and important problems of the day is the seasonal and cyclical changes in employment, Howard Connelley, of Boston, told the United States Chamber of Commerce today.

Pointing out that for generations stabilized currency has been considered as the very foundation of a nation's success, Connelley said few realized what a "comfortable superstructure" we could create by having stabilized demand, stabilized prices and stabilized employment.

Such an Utopia could never be reached, he said, but in view of changing conditions and growing enlightenment, a move in this direction is possible.

"To establish a starting point we must go to the roots of many problems, all of which need study and coordination," he said. "Fortunately, these are days when business is gradually becoming a profession. Recent statistics prove that greatest demand in the high schools and colleges."

"Gradually our institutions of learning are developing a science of business training and are turning out graduates who have a knowledge both of the fundamentals of business research and of its application. In fact, the majority of our progressive corporations are making broad use of this modern business training."

LONE BANDIT GETS $2,000 IN HOLD-UP

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 1.—Search is being made today for the lone bandit, about 25 years of age who late Wednesday stole $2,000 from the Smithfield, twelve miles south of Steubenville. The robber escaped in an auto.

After forcing T. W. Purviance, vice president, and Miss Erma Malone, bookkeeper, into the bank vault, the bandit took all the cash in sight and placed it in a black satchel. He did not lock the vault.

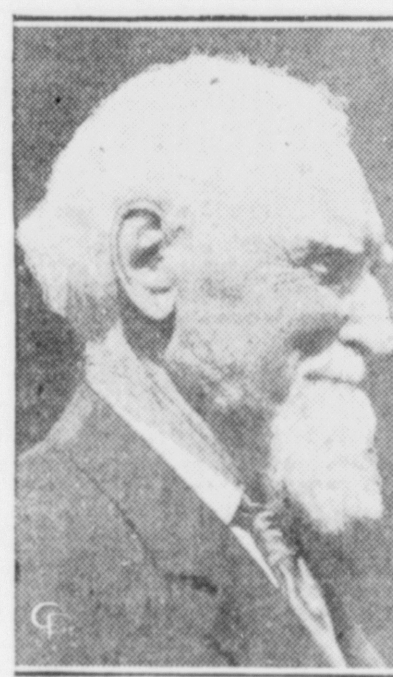

BANDITS SOUGHT

CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—Police today were aiding in the search for the two unknown men who held up the Silverton Bank, at Silverton, near here Wednesday and escaped with $100. Four men robbed this bank of $3,300 two months ago. It is suspected that Wednesday's robbers participated in the former holdup.

INSANE PATIENT IS KILLED FOLLOWING MURDER OF INMATES

Crazed Negro Runs Amuck; Crowded Hospital Blamed

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Deaths of two patients at the Columbus State Hospital for the Insane, where a crazed negro beat them and then afterwards paid for the killings with his own life, today were laid directly to the overcrowded conditions at the institution.

As they lay sleeping in their cots last night, Sylvester Shannon, aged 27, of Belmont County, and Frank T. Wilson, aged 52, of Guernsey County, were beaten to death by the negro, who used a washstand as the death instrument.

The negro, Ambrose Moss, 37, of Columbus, who had been confined in the institution twice before, suffered a broken neck when he was overpowered by attendants at the hospital. He died within a few minutes.

The first intimation which hospital attaches had of the tragedy was the dull thud of the small wash stand against the bodies of Shannon and Wilson. They rushed into the ward where the three were confined and, after a brief struggle, placed the negro in a strait jacket. They then placed him in another room and turned their attention to the victims. Both were dead.

Coroner J. A. Murphy said that death in both cases was due to fractured skulls.

Hospital attendants then turned their attention to the negro. He was dead also.

Dr. William H. Pritchard, superintendent of the hospital, declared that he had been forced to place the negro with the two other men because of overcrowded conditions at the institution.

The negro had been in the hospital less than six hours when he wantonly slew his ward-mates. Shannon, who was suffering from the effects of a strange sleeping sickness, had been in the state hospital only six days when his life was cut short by the violent death.

The Belmont County man is survived by a mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Shannon, of Flushing, Ohio, in the county.

Wilson, the second victim, was a victim of paralysis and he was powerless to resist the negro's attack. He had been admitted only twelve days ago. A daughter, Mrs. Fred Artist, and a wife, Mrs. Anona Wilson, survive him.

Authorities will make a further investigation into the tragedy today.

BAKER IMPROVED

CLEVELAND, May 1.—Newton D. Baker, prominent attorney and former secretary of war, who is suffering from bronchial pneumonia, was reported considerably improved today.

Physicians attending Baker, declared that his temperature is practically normal and that he is rapidly gaining strength.

Safety Director Is Held In Jail But Ignores Order

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—May Day opened with a riot of 2,000 students at University of Pennsylvania here early today and before the disturbance had been quelled 300 students were in jail and L. B. Schofield, Philadelphia's police system head, had been arrested, ordered held in $1500 bail and ordered sent to Moyamensing Prison.

The safety director refused to abide by the ruling of Magistrate Tommy O'Malley, however, and his aides threw the magistrate out of the station house at Schofield's direction. Schofield, after a tirade to the students under arrest, permitted them to be released pending a hearing.

Schofield's arrest was authorized on a warrant sworn out by Michael J. Calby, Republican legislative candidate, when it was learned he had issued orders forbidding any of the students under arrest from being freed on copies of the charges lodged against them. Constable Milburn of Magistrate O'Malley's staff served the warrant.

After the tumult had subsided and the magistrate had been forcibly ejected from the police station Schofield declared the entire proceedings had been illegal in regard to his arrest, hearing and commitment. He declared that he had not been in the room at the time of the magistrate's brief hearing.

The safety director's arrest climaxed a night of turmoil that made life sleepless for the residents surrounding the University of Pennsylvania campus.

The first outbreak started about midnight when some two or three hundred students staged a "row" below, the term used at Penn for a noisy rally of the collegians.

Stores were wrecked, windows smashed and innocent bystanders thrown into patrol wagons when police attempted to halt the noisy disturbances. Many of the students fled to their fraternity houses. Doors and locks were smashed. In one case the pursuing officers shot the locks off with their guns to secure entrance and arrest the occupants.

It was 3:15 a. m. before the rioting subsided.

The police, invasion of the quiet precincts surrounding the university marked a spectacular end to the second rowbottom that has thrown terror into the neighborhood within the past three days.

Discarding their policy of peaceful intervention last night, Schofield's men, several hundred strong, wielded clubs and whips alike to batter in the costly doors of the palatial fraternity houses.

PLANS TO IMPROVE OHIO PENITENTIARY GIVEN TO GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Plans for materially improving conditions at the Ohio Penitentiary were in the hands of Governor Myers Y. Cooper today. These plans are embodied in a communication which was sent to the Governor by Hal H. Griswold, state welfare director.

In addition to a fireproof roofing over all the cell blocks as well as the administration building, Griswold recommends the construction of a cellblock in the building, now housing the E and F dormitory, just west of the warden's residence and that the prison labor force devote all its energies in completing the construction of the three units of the industrial building.

Griswold advised that the proposed cellblock be built by contract instead of by prison labor.

The state welfare director pointed out that the penitentiary population could be lowered at least 1,350 prisoners when facilities at other state prisons, including London prison farm, the Mansfield Reformatory and the Grafton prison farm, are available.

YOUTH ARRESTED IN LIQUOR CASE HELD FOR FEDERAL COURT

Gave Fictitious Name Here; Admits Jail Record

Paul Waddell alias George Myers, 21, Dayton, held in the County Jail awaiting a hearing Friday morning in Probate Court on a charge of transporting liquor, was scheduled to be turned over to federal authorities at Dayton Thursday for prosecution.

Arrested as the driver of a liquor-laden truck on the Columbus Pike last Saturday night, Waddell gave police and county officers a fictitious name and a false address in Dayton, it became known Wednesday.

A federal agent who interviewed the youth Wednesday recognized him as Paul Waddell, who had served a year in the Atlanta, Ga. federal prison on a liquor charge. Waddell readily admitted his true identity to the federal officer, according to Sheriff Olmer Tate.

As a result he will not be prosecuted locally on the transporting charge but will be turned over to the custody of federal authorities.

Waddell had denied being the driver of a truck which authorities found to contain a cargo of 300 gallons of liquor in five-gallon tins. He protested that he was hitch-hiking along the pike and had "thumbed" a ride with the real driver, who, he said, escaped when officers stopped the truck and searched it.

ESCAPED PRISONER CAUGHT IN TOLEDO

Tennant was identified as the escaped prisoner after he had been arrested as a suspect in a recent restaurant robbery.

CONVICTION IN FAY CASE SUSTAINED IN VERDICT ON APPEAL

Court Defines Pool Selling As Gambling In Decision

Death knell of dog racing in Greene County was sounded when the Court of Appeals, second judicial district in a decision announced Thursday, upheld the conviction of Charles R. Fay, Middletown, chairman of the board of directors of the Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., on a charge of permitting the selling of pools at the dog racing plant at Fairfield last July 26.

Fay, one of the principal promoters of the partnership organization which financed construction of the $75,000 track, was found guilty in Common Pleas Court, fined $500 and costs and given a suspended sentence of six months in the County Jail.

Attorney Frank L. Johnson, Xenia, a member of defense counsel for Fay, declared Thursday he had not had an opportunity to examine the appellate court's decision. Fay has the choice of either carrying his appeal to the Supreme Court or dropping the case entirely.

The appellate court, in affirming Fay's conviction, pointed out that it recently held in Summit County in the case of Pardee against the Northampton Land Co., that the selling of pool tickets upon horse races is a violation of the criminal law.

In the opinion of the appeals court there is no difference between horse racing and dog racing so far as the sale of pool tickets on the races is concerned and that

GANDHI APPEALS FOR 100,000 MORE

BOMBAY, May 1.—A call for 100,000 volunteers to aid him in his campaign of salt-law violation was issued by Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader today.

From his headquarters at Dandi, near here, the aged proponent of Indian home rule offered to lead his campaign into the heart of Bombay city if 100,000 faithful, pledged to refrain from violence, would follow him.

Local congressmen interested in the national cause are trying to round up the volunteers.

The situation was generally quiet today. There were no May Day demonstrations.

BLAST WRECKS FRONT OF STORE

CLEVELAND, O., May 1.—A mysterious blast wrecked the front wall of a grocery store in Willowburg Village here early today and shattered the windows of several nearby houses, including a church parsonage, located across the street.

Police, who investigated the explosion, said it had apparently been caused by a dynamite bomb. Joseph Lopisciot, owner of the grocery store, was at a loss to explain the blast. He said he had no enemies insofar as he knew.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER UNITED

Fourteen Year Separation Ends In Columbus—Girl Wise For Years

COLUMBUS, O., May 1.—Wise to the world despite her tender years, a blonde 16-year-old girl today had been reunited with her mother, from whom she had been lost since she was 2 years of age.

Mannishly smoking a cigarette, the girl, Elsie Fillingim, sat in her mother's home here and told of the experiences she had encountered in those fourteen years of separation.

Since she was 12, she said, she had been "out on her own."

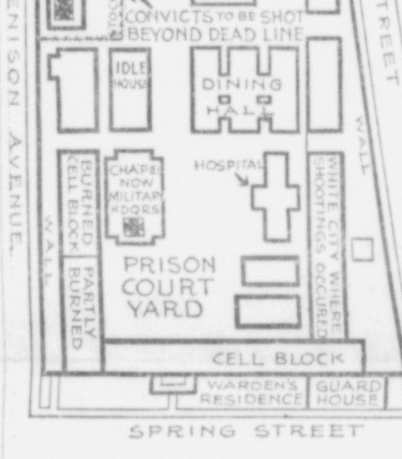

"I've worked as a waitress, housemaid and nurse girl in homes in southern cities," the girl declared.

She stated that she had made her home "wherever I was"—in El Paso, Beaumont, Texas, New Orleans and Kansas City. Here she paused to light another cigarette. She seemed bored as she told of her experiences.

WEAPONS SEIZED AT OHIO PRISON

Searching of mattresses by National Guardsmen in the prison chapel at the Ohio pen revealed hand-made weapons and tools of all descriptions. The photo above shows Corp. G. R. Powers examining improvised weapons confiscated. The lower map shows the location of prison buildings and the stockade and tent encampment in which prisoners are now quartered. Orders were issued that prisoners appearing beyond a deadline outside the stockade would be shot.

POLICE SUBDUE VILLAGE RIOT

CHICAGO, May 1.—Something akin to martial law prevailed in the suburb of Brookfield today after a village meeting last night precipitated two riots, one kidnapping and several lynching threats.

Three squads of highway police took charge to restore order after three men kidnapped Gustave Grahl, village collector, took him for a ride and then threw him out of the automobile.

Two separate riots broke out at the village hall where partisans of two rival parties had gathered for the meeting. They were put down by squads of police. Frank Schroeder, candidate for village treasurer, last night obtained a warrant against Andrew Borg, chief of police, charging assault on murder.

Modification polled 455 and enforcement 419.

The girl said Davidson threatened to kill her unless she went through with the ceremony, which was performed at Denver. She asserted her stepfather compelled her to say she was 18 years old at the time of their marriage.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN CITIES HELD UNDER EYE OF AUTHORITIES

Reds Hoist Flag In Australia; Two Held In Cleveland

By I. N. S.

Extraordinary police precautions in the principal cities of the world, including round-up of all suspected characters, guarding of public buildings, government officials and prominent men, today greeted the annual May Day demonstrations in every corner of the globe.

A survey of International News Service at 10:30 a. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time showed that little violence had occurred anywhere in Europe or the United States by that time. The most serious demonstration anywhere was at Darwin, capital of northern Australia, where Communists seized the office of the government administrator and hoisted the red flag in the center of the city.

In New York, an army of 15,000 patrolmen and reserves, stationed at Union Square and other strategic points throughout the city, appeared to furnish a guarantee that any untoward demonstration would be short-lived. Homes of wealthy men such as J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., were heavily guarded, while similar precautions were taken in Chicago, Philadelphia and other large cities throughout the country.

NAVAL TREATY WILL BE CONSIDERED AT SECRET HEARINGS

Opposition Will Be Bottled Within Committees

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Opposition to the London naval treaty, the extent of which cannot yet be gauged, will be largely bottled up in the secret hearings of the senate committees on naval affairs and foreign affairs if plans now being worked out by administration leaders succeed.

President Hoover will transmit the document to the senate late this week or early next, following conferences with members of the American delegation. Thereafter the treaty will come before the two committees for analysis, and the navy technicians who opposed the American sacrifice of the eight-inch cruiser policy will be invited to submit their views behind closed doors.

Whether the opposition to the cruiser terms then will be carried into open debate in the senate remains to be seen. That this opposition is fairly widespread among some of the navy's "best minds" is now apparent.

Senator Robinson (D) of Arkansas, the lone Democrat on the delegation, frankly admitted that the naval experts at London were divided on the relative merit of the eight-inch cruiser and then six-inch cruiser, so far as American usage is concerned. It was this division of opinion, incidentally, that almost kept Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones from going to London in the first place.

And it also accounted in some part for his return to Washington while the conference was still going on. Admiral Jones has been a strong proponent of the eight-inch cruiser as opposed to the smaller six-inch vessel which Great Britain finds so adaptable to her needs.

The reason for the analysis of the treaty in executive sessions of the committees was ascribed to the fact that much of the unrecorded history of the London negotiations may have to be revealed to curious and questioning senators. To disclose some of this matter in public might be exceedingly embarrassing to foreign statesmen as well as to some members of the American delegation.

In his only public comment on the treaty since his return, Senator Robinson disclosed that he is not wildly enthusiastic over the accomplishment at London, but he does believe that it represents an advance toward naval stabilization, and that it represents, on the whole, the best that could be obtained at this time.

Atchafalpa sold up about 2 points at 22 1/2. Union Pacific was up 1 1/2 at 22 1/2. Pennsylvania up 1 1/2 at 78 1/2. Erie up fractionally at 5 1/2 and New Haven up 1 1/2 at 113.

SPRING VALLEY SHOWS GAIN IN POPULATION IN LATEST CENSUS

Population of the village as shown by a preliminary count of the returns of the fifteenth decennial census, taken as of April 1, 1930, is 478, as compared with 444 on January 1, 1920, according to an announcement made Thursday by W. H. Story, Springfield, census supervisor for this district.

The census figures for 1930 are preliminary and subject to correction but are believed to be substantially correct. There were two farms enumerated in the Spring Valley village area in the current census. The report is the first received of any Greene County village.

BUSINESS today requires that the successful man be physically fit and mentally alert. Men, especially, forget themselves physically. They work dically all their time. They do not exercise enough. They get little or no sunshine. They are robbed of a good appetite . . . and when their red-blood-cells fall below normal their flesh becomes flabby, their nerves unsteady. Their strength must be re-inforced.

Soundness of body and peace of mind depend upon the proper number of red-cells in the blood—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red-cell count remain below normal. S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building. You will be pleased to know that S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

FOGLE WEEKS NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED

An interesting spring wedding, was that of Miss Dorothy Fogle, daughter of Mrs. Martha Fogle, Yellow Springs and Mr. Elmer Weeks, son of Mr. Elmer Weeks, Springfield, which was solemnized at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Yellow Springs at 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, before a small assemblage of relatives.

The Rev. J. W. Patton, pastor of the Methodist Church, officiated, reading the impressive single ring service. The couple was unattended.

The bride was lovely in her wedding frock of blue chiffon. She wore accessories of tan and carried an arm shower of yellow roses gathered together with dainty blue ribbons.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served at the home of the bride's mother. The bridal table was handsomely decorated with early spring flowers. Snapdragons, sweet-peas and roses decorated the rooms of the home.

N. Y. STOCK NOON TREND

NEW YORK, May 1.—A feeble rally in the oils and coppers in the early trading today was offset by the fresh outbreak of selling in the steel stocks and utilities. Reduction of the Banks of England and France discount rates suggested the possibility of another cut in the reserve bank discount rates here today and this was accentuated by the further reduction of bankers' acceptance rates.

A surprising cut of twenty-five cents a barrel in Pennsylvania crude oil led to some selling of the oils and Standard of New Jersey lost more than a point. Texas Corporation and Texas Land Trust advanced about 2 points each on reports of concerted drilling operations in the vast areas controlled by the trust.

The active rails opened 1 to 2 points higher, but demand for these stocks was small, and no real progress was made. United Corporation and United Gas Improvement, leaders in the spirited rise in low-priced industrial stocks, were under selling pressure and sold off about 3 1-2 points from the peak of the move. Consolidated Gas was in good demand at 132.

Warner Brothers Pictures, at the head of the amusement stocks, carried its spectacular rise to 73 1-4 and Radio Keith was in fractionally higher ground at 47 3-8.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LIBERTY IN CHRIST—For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is the Lord's freeman: likewise also he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant. Ye are bought with a price: be not ye the servants of men.—1 Cor. 7:22, 23.

THREAT OF A DEFICIT

The letter dealing with the threat of a government deficit, which President Hoover has sent to Westley L. Jones, chairman of the appropriations committee of the senate, is, as Mr. Borah says, "a very important one." It would not have been written if the chief executive had not seen ahead a definite danger that the expenditures of the federal government will materially exceed the treasury receipts next year, unless care is used in dealing with the multitudinous requests for appropriations that face the present congress, as they face all congresses.

Of course, as the President says, a deficit of between twenty and thirty million dollars, which he now believes impending, is relatively a small item. What is really bothering the executive mind is a general tendency, rather than a concrete prospect; and he expresses his thought when he says "it is obvious that further large amounts of expenditures will jeopardize the primary duty of the government, that is, to hold expenditures within our income," which is good Coolidge-Mellon caution, and one of the foundations of the existing national governmental prosperity.

It does not appear that the President had any particular, outstanding appropriation items in mind for sacrifice when he wrote his letter to Senator Jones. His remark that "something over one hundred and twenty-five acts have been passed * * * or favorably reported * * * three hundred and fifty million dollars next year," leaves the impression that he is extending a general word of protest against easy spending. He is conveying a reminder that eternal vigilance is the price of solvency as well as of some other things.

The executive warning is not one that congress can afford to disregard. To do so, would be to invite a situation that might make imperative an increase in the income tax, and if anything of that sort should occur, a lot of senators and congressmen would retire to private life at an early date.

HOARDED MONEY

The newspapers have been telling about large sums of money still in the hands of the public, in the form of unredeemed bills of the former large size currency, there being over $1,336,000,000 of such old bills which have not yet been returned to the government. It is assumed that a considerable quantity of these bills have been destroyed or lost.

Many old fashioned people always used to store large sums of money in secret places about their dwellings. Such sums often disappeared in the rubbish when these homes were torn down or burned. The traditional misers used to bury money in their grounds, and many such bills have furnished food for earthworms. If there are any people left who follow these foolish hoarding practices, they should put their money into some bank where it will give them interest and help develop their home neighborhood and country.

The privilege of voting at municipal elections has been granted to women in Turkey and they are assured of full suffrage by 1932. Their progress from the harem to the polls has been accomplished with a rapidity that should raise the hair on anti-feminist heads in some western countries.

We suppose it is thrilling and all that to cross the continent in fifteen hours, but what does it all amount to. At that speed a person can't see anything.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

STUDY YOUR WORRIES

Perhaps not one of us can avoid a certain amount of worry. But if we are intelligent we can study our worries, analyze them, dispose of them. Many of us make the mistake of trying to escape worries, trying to run away from them. Turning your back does no good. You can not escape that way. But you can face the thing openly, calmly, with poise. The thing that can be helped you can help, if you are not deficient in energy and courage. The things that have happened—past and gone—can be checked off. If you do not care to change your life in such a way as to escape worry, then accept worry, get used to it. Indeed there is a certain triumph to life if you do no more than succeed in not making others miserable with your cares.

ALWAYS SPEED

One reads that photos of President Hoover's Palo Alto home in California will be taken from an airplane, developed, and sent by telephone to Washington all within half an hour. Nobody is much surprised. We are thrill-proof. Do you notice the loud pedal on records—records for speed? Always speed. How fast can a man travel? How fast can a liner cross the sea? How fast can a man take a picture and how fast can it be transmitted? Always how fast! The thrill of building is speed. The thrill of living is speed.

Who started all this emphasis on "how fast"? The day has come for someone to start a movement to slow the pace of the world and its creatures who jump up and down and rush to and fro.

PAINTING LIFE

It is still common practice, not based on reason but merely on bad habit, to criticize the press. No newspaper can please everybody. There are too many people and too many topics involved. Newspapers present life. Editors hold a mirror up to the present day. But the publications which distort life, which misrepresent it, which soil and poison are not newspapers. They are magazines and books.

DEAD HANDS AND DEAD IDEAS

A British playwright, now dead, left money to have certain anti-German war plays produced annually so that "the remembrance of the atrocities committed by the Germans on the English people be kept alive." Wise and thoughtful British actors have refused to take the money and produce the plays. Men should be careful in writing their wills. Much better no will than a bad one. Dead hands must not long rule the living. Ideas die as surely as men and it is well they do. Wartime hatred between nations is dying. Some day it will be dead. No ordinary man can penetrate the future. Much less can he safely seek to guarantee the continued prevalence of his ideas. Men grown up and civilized do not wish to keep alive hate.

Only love deserves to be immortal.

NEW YORK.—No matter what their position in life, women are more and more going into business. And the wives of noted New Yorkers are no exception.

The avocation of Mrs. George Brothers, wife of District Attorney Gray's chief of staff, who tries the big murder cases, is designing all the costumes for the Earl Carroll shows. With a staff of 250 girls, she also supervises their production. The gowns of "Floretta" and the present "Sketch Book" were her creations. Carroll thinks so much of her that he has set his new show ahead, so she can handle it before going to Paris.

Mrs. John Flinn, wife of the vice-president of Pathe Film Corporation, is shopping consultant to Park Ave. and its environs. It's only infrequently society knows just what it wants, and Mrs. Flinn helps it to make up its mind.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

If you do not recognize your favorite "hot dog" at Coney Island this Summer, there is a reason.

They are to undergo a beautifying process with a make-up that comes in liquid form, and which was one of the coquettish exhibits at the recent Institute of Meat Packers.

This line of make-up for the "weenies" can be obtained in seven shades, ranging from blonde to brunette, and its purpose is to impart a complexion which no appetite can resist.

By the proper beauty treatment, a sallow sausage may be given a high color if intended for Coney, and a racy air of it is to be served at the race tracks by Harry Stevens, while those designed for city consumption will receive only a modest sun tan.

To keep a harmonious color scheme, mustard will have to be peddled on in the right shades—vivid yellow for the blonde skinned frankfurters, and a plain mustard brown for the darker.

In the meantime, all the "hot dogs" at Coney are barking a protest. As Bide Dudley would say—"there is much excitement."

UNIVERSAL DRAFT RESOLUTION AROUSES SKEPTICISM AND FEAR IN LABOR RANKS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Having voted, not so long ago to renounce war as a "national policy," the senate is considering the so-called "universal draft" resolution now.

The representatives already have passed it but in a badly mangled form. That is to say, Congressman Huddleston of Alabama got in an amendment designed to knock out the idea of conscripting industrial and farm labor, which actually killed the resolution, according to Congressman Johnson of South Dakota, because the amendment defeated its "real purpose," as Congressman Snell of New York explained.

Its senate friends' job is to resuscitate it if you can. The "universal draft" principle's supporters make a great deal of the fact that it has the American Legion's endorsement. However, "don't forget," pointed out Congressman Connery of Massachusetts, during the representatives' debate, "that the Legion thought capital was to be conscripted, too."

The drawback to this part of the program is that conscription of capital is unconstitutional; the other kinds of conscription are not. Anyway, "capital's profits," urged Congressman Johnson, in opposition to the Huddleston amendment, "can be limited"—just as in the last war—which, tactically adds the railroad brotherhoods' organ, "Labor," commenting on the argument, only created 23,000 millionaires.

To be sure, the "universal draft" resolution proposes a commission whose duties are to include plans for a constitutional amendment permitting private property to "be taken for public use without profit during war."

This is a pretty radical suggestion. Quite a few lawmakers doubt if the resolution's sponsors really mean to go to such extremes. The truth is, it is difficult to believe that they do, considering who the two principal ones are. The resolution frequently is called after them—the "Grundy-Snell resolution"—Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania and Congressman Bertrand H. Snell of the Empire state, one of the triumvirate (with Speaker Nick Longworth and Col. John Q. Tilson) of G. O. P. bosses of the house of representatives.

Yes, the proposal to conscript capital is quite generally regarded as having been put into the Grundy-Snell resolution rather for purposes of ornament than anything else. Universal military training is sprung on Broadway this week by Universal, and your scout has to report he sat throughout the performance, flabbergasted. Young Carl Laemmle has taken that fine descriptive novel of war, and turned it into a sex orgy. It's one of those "he wanted her, and she wanted him" things, and they were bound to have each other, even if without benefit of clergy.

Listen to this: "To him—she meant love; to her—he meant a man."

It's a nice, slummy, slough of sex, and "Uncle" Laemmle must have let Junior make it with his fingers crossed. But where was Will Hays when all this was done—looking out the window?

recognized as altogether a different thing. No one questions that Grundy and Snell mean that.

That they are heart-felt in their advocacy of conscripting farm and industrial labor in seasons of stress also is accepted without skepticism—especially industrial labor; Senator Grundy is a woolen manufacturer, and Congressman Snell has paper, power and oil interests, and probably they feel strongly concerning the wages they must have had to pay during the last war.

There is another thing that organized labor, in particular, dislikes in the resolution.

It contemplates the conscription of man power (the conscription of capital being unconstitutional) not only in war time but in "emergency" generally.

Is a strike, for instance, an "emergency"? Labor would like to know.

From the employers' standpoint, even ordinary universal military service can be utilized mightily effectively, if a government so desires, for strike-breaking purposes. I have seen it in operation myself, in France, when the workers tried to tie up the country's transportation system.

No one denied that the railroad men had a right to walk out—as civilians—but as soon as they were out, the government called them to the colors, sorted out the ones who knew how to run trains and set them to doing it, as soldiers. It worked.

This menu was planned for two. Oatmeal is cooked the night before, served left in double boiler overnight and re-heated in the morning, the raisins being stirred in when the re-heating is done.

Today's Recipes
Coffee Cake—One tablespoon shortening, one cup sugar, one cup milk, two cups flour, one egg, two teaspoons baking powder, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Beat egg, add to creamed sugar and shortening, then add milk, sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Spread in pans about three-fourths inch thick and dot with butter. Sprinkle with three tablespoons sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon mixed. Bake about twenty-five minutes.

Rice Cakes with Cheese Sauce—One-half cup rice, one-half cup boiling water, one and one-fourth cups milk, one-half teaspoon baking soda, one-fourth cup cream, two tablespoons canned tomatoes, dash of paprika. Wash rice in several waters, soak over night. In morning drain, add boiling water, cook in double boiler until water is absorbed. Add milk and cook until absorbed, then add soda, cream and tomatoes (thick part, rubbed through sieve). Spread on platter to cool, shape and fry, or bread and fry in deep fat.

Cheese Sauce—Three tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups milk, one cup grated cheese, one-half teaspoon salt. Melt butter, stir in enough flour to make smooth paste, add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to boiling point, add cheese and salt.

Suggestions
For Leaky Tubs
If in a hurry to use a tub that leaks, press common soap into the cracks from the outside. When dry pour melted paraffin around the cracks.

TOWEL WASH CLOTHS
Towels have an uncanny habit of wearing out in the center. The ends can be put to good use if one cuts them into squares and uses oblique binding around them. They make attractive little face cloths—especially for the kiddies—as they can have them done in their favorite color.

Rest Periods
I DON'T wonder that many women and girls lose much of their beauty after a few years in the business world, when I consider how the majority of them spend their "days off."

Some women, during their 24 hours' release from their offices, wash, iron, scrub floors, prepare their little apartments for the next week's use. Others rush madly to fill luncheon engagements, go to matinees, take dinner with friends, and occupy the last few hours of their weekly rest period by attending parties.

We've had a lot of advice to the effect that a change of occupation is as good as a vacation, and to some extent that holds true. But the body that is unceasingly active eventually is going to show the wear and tear of the nervous tension at which it is kept, and the result is inevitably loss of beauty.

Every woman, no matter what the demand upon her, every girl, no matter how socially or professionally ambitious she may be, should for the sake of the preservation of her comeliness, give herself at least one 24-hour period every month devoted to complete rest.

On that day, which she should count her and hers alone, she should sleep her fill, whether that be 10, 12 or 18 hours. If she cannot possibly sleep more than eight or nine hours, the day should be devoted to complete relaxation.

Every woman who gives herself this period of rest when she forgets the daily grind, will find that she will preserve her youth and beauty much longer. And the refreshments she will receive from her relaxation will last much longer than the little time devoted to regaining strength and calming nerves.

And certainly, though this is a high-tension age, the business woman can afford to devote to herself 12 days' out of every year! GLADYS GLAD.

EXCESS MILK CLOYS TASTE

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverb.

Answers to Mothers
"My baby of 16 months walks very bowlegged. She started to walk when she was 13 months old, and her legs were straight, but after a while they became bowed."

"I feed her vegetables and fruit, and she drinks all the milk I give her, but will never touch spinach. I never gave her cod liver oil, and I realize now that she should have had it. Is it too late to give it to her now? I rub her legs with alcohol every night, but it doesn't seem to help."
MRS. H.

No, rubbing the baby's legs with alcohol wouldn't help, Mrs. H. She should have had, as you say, cod liver oil and plenty of sunshine, for there is no doubt she has developed rickets.

Your letter shows an idea that many have which is false—that is, if the baby gets plenty of milk, everything is all right. While milk is the nearest perfect food we have, it is not perfect, for it lacks iron and the vitamins necessary to prevent rickets. A quart a day should be the limit that most children should take, and in some cases not over three glasses should be allowed. When too much is given, then the appetite is cloyed for the other needed food, especially the green vegetables.

If your baby doesn't like spinach, you don't have to force it on her; however, I would try cooking it in different ways: pureeing it, creaming it, decorating it with slices of egg, etc. If you find she doesn't like it anyway, give her other green vegetables—green lettuce, kale, cabbage, etc., instead.

Yes, you should start giving her cod liver oil now. But you should see an orthopedic surgeon. At her age her legs can be straightened. Perhaps he would prefer that she take the concentrated vitamin D in viosterol.

We have a list of books on the general care and feeding of children, which you may have by following column rules.

"Dear Doctor: Please tell me why my baby boy, 1½ years old, breathes through his mouth? There doesn't seem to be any obstruction in his nose, because he can breathe through it when his mouth is closed, when I tell him to."

"MRS. G."

This is probably only habit, and you can most likely overcome it by strapping his lips together at night with the gummed paper that is used for mending torn paper. It is easily removed by wetting, in the morning. I presume you have had the little boy to a physician so that you know there is no obstruction or partial obstruction? You should do this, if you haven't already.

Mrs. B. sends me the picture of her baby boy, who was born when she was 49 years old (she had given birth to twins who were 23 years old when this baby came).

He is a darling child, healthy and happy, and she had no trouble. She simply writes to encourage Mrs. I. S., whose letter I ran, who was afraid to have a child after 35. Thank you, Mrs. B.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, plus the following "mail charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: for each article wanted, two cents in coin; for each pamphlet ten cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders, Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving
By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

LONESOME BOY: First of all, my dear boy, I would get over my inferiority complex, if I were you. I would think how lucky I was to have a home when so many deserted children have to live in orphanages all their lives. Instead of thinking that your sister is being favored all the time, try to think that because she is a girl she needs more petting and consideration, and do your share of caring for her.

If you are many in your attitude and considerate in your home I am sure your parents will love you and respect you, even though they are not affectionate in their way of showing it as if you were a girl.

I think it's fine that you do so much toward supporting yourself and helping yourself through school. You must be a very mature boy. Feel free to respect yourself because of it, but don't allow yourself to become conceited. I can see no reason why you cannot gain friends under such circumstances. Your speech impediment may make you a little shy and self-conscious, but many people have had worse handicaps to overcome. Wasn't it Socrates who had to go down to the beach and practice speechmaking with pebbles in his mouth because he had such a trouble?

As to the girl, why not write her a note, as you are afraid of becoming confused and not being able to say what you wish, and ask her to be your friend? It seems to me she has a very friendly smiling, friendly way that she likes you. But if you write her, be a little more particular about your spelling than you were in your letter to me. When you speak of yourself in writing you should always use a capital I, you know. And "seems" is split with two e's. No seams. A sophomore in high school should really know that, shouldn't he?

I don't mean to criticize you, but am just giving you a friendly tip. It's annoying to some to receive misspelled letters, and one might as well learn the correct way, mayn't they?

I hope these suggestions will help you somewhat, and that you will be happier from now on.

"My Dear Virginia Lee: I am writing you this letter as I want your advice on the ground of leaving my husband."

"I have been married for six years, have two sweet babies. For the first two years I was happy as could be, but now it's the opposite. My husband runs around with other women and now has fallen in love with a woman who lives just two blocks from our little home. He receives letters from her and goes out with her two and three nights a week. I have left him twice but it seemed to do no good. Would you leave him for me? He says it's only the babies that's keeping us together. He also says he loves me, but I can't believe it."

"I'm getting so I can't sleep. I'm just worried sick. So, please Virginia, advise me what to do."

"PATSY."

Your husband has a queer way of showing his love if he really does love you, hasn't he? Are you happier when you are away from him? Could you be contented if you went away for good and made a home for your babies where his actions wouldn't worry you?

I think and say, as probably you know, that homes should be kept together as often as possible, for the babies' sake, but a home in which the father is openly unfaithful and the mother is made a nervous wreck thereby, hardly seems a good place to bring up children.

On the other hand, if you do leave for good and then spend your time regretting that you didn't keep your home and make a fight for its happiness awhile longer, that isn't going to give the babies a happy, normal mother, either, you see. Talk it over with some older friend who knows you both and can give you an unbiased opinion.

TIMELY HITTING IN PINCHES ACHIEVES VICTORY IN OPENER

Winners Rally In Final
Innings To Take
Victory

Timely hitting in the pinches coupled with errors of commission and omission by their opponents enabled the Graham Paints to achieve a 11 to 5 victory over the Criterion nine in a league softball game that was more closely contested than the final score would indicate. Wednesday night at Cox Athletic Field.

The Criterion outfit obtained ten hits as compared with seven for Graham's but Herman Wells, Criterion hurler, was accorded ragged support and the winners made the most of their few bingles.

Graham's scored one run in the first inning, three in the fourth, three in the seventh and four in the eighth and last inning. Up until the final two innings the Criterion team was leading by virtue of two runs scored in each of the fourth and fifth rounds and another in the seventh.

Jacobs, on the mound for Graham's, was hit free but bore down with runners on base. Haller and McCarran each got two hits for the winners while Briley and Milburn knocked home runs in the last of the eighth. For the Criterion nine, Smith and D. Finlay each hit safely twice.

Entering the contest as the underdog, Graham Paints stamped itself as a stronger team than had been expected and served notice that it will offer the stiffest kind of opposition to other league teams this season. Lineups:

MARCHAND FINDS SECLUSION HERE

In this old-fashioned farm house near Albany, N. Y., Henri Marchand, internationally known Buffalo artist, is resting, far from the scene of the trial of Lila Jimerson, Indian woman, who has pleaded guilty in the second degree to the murder of Marchand's wife. During the trial Marchand said he made love to Lila, who had posed for him, because of "professional necessity."

Georgia Fights Malaria Draining Infested Swamp

THE DRAINING BEGUN.

MILLEN, Ga., May 1.—One of the last stands in Georgia of the anopheles mosquito, carrier of the germs of that bane of Southern states, malaria, has begun to disappear with the draining of Alligator Lake, whose black waters have brought ill to people of this section for more than a century.

Water sent surging down the valley into the Ogeechee River, as a blast of a ton of dynamite tore a huge gap in the surrounding hillside, marked an event that Jenkins County had been talking about for generations and had attempted to accomplish before the Civil War.

Infested by Mosquitoes.

About the only things that thrived in Alligator Lake were the mosquitoes and the swamp-cypress, whose sturdy trunks rose above rocks firmly imbedded in the black loam. As it was impossible to properly oil the water surface, which spread over an area of nearly 700 acres, and eliminate the mosquito larvae, the dreaded malarial pests multiplied until even the 'Geechee negroes, hardened to the disease by the blood of their African fathers, suffered seriously.

Last year, 11,000 of the country's 15,000 population were malaria victims. The plague was attributed to Alligator Lake and Duck's Pond, to the center of the lake. Presence of pipe clay in the hillside, which led slave laborers to abandon their efforts to drain the valley before the Civil War, made it impossible to complete the project without the use of dynamite. The blasting cost less than $1 per acre, it was estimated.

The first known effort to drain the lake was made about seventy years ago. The property is a part of the grant of 60,000 acres made by King George III. of England to Francis Johns, a Welshman, who came to Georgia about thirty years before the Revolutionary War.

The 700-acre tract will be converted into farm land as soon as it dries.

Who's Who and Timely Views

HOUSEWIFE VIEWED AS IMPORTANT COG IN CENSUS TAKING

By WILLIAM M. STEUART
Director of Census

(William Mott Stuart was born at Corpus Christi, Tex., Oct. 2, 1861. He is a graduate of Columbian (now George Washington) university. Admitted to the bar in 1884, he practiced law in the District of Columbia, Maryland and Detroit. In 1880 he became connected with the census of manufacturers, becoming chief of the division in 1890, then chief statistician of manufacturers, bureau of census, from 1902 to 1917. Assistant director of the census in 1919, he has been director since 1921. He is a Republican.)

In taking the fifteenth decennial census of the United States, the census enumerators are knocking at the front doors of something like 30,000,000 homes.

They are collecting a large quantity of valuable information in addition to counting the population of the nation. They must depend largely for this information upon a single member of the family—the woman in the home.

It is to this all-important person that I should like to appeal, because the success of the census depends very largely upon her cooperation and good will, for the reason that when the census-takers arrive, most of the men are at their places of employment.

The woman in the home is in many cases the only person in the family with whom the census bureau establishes contact. She is, therefore, the most important member of the household from the standpoint of the census.

Is she prepared to answer the census questions? Some of them no doubt she can answer readily enough. She knows her own age, and popular tradition and jokes to the contrary, she can be relied upon to give it accurately in most cases.

She knows also the ages of her husband, children, and other members of the family, and she knows whether the children are attending school.

Some of the other questions she may not be able to answer so readily. If she is living in a rented house or apartment it is safe to say that she knows what the monthly rent is. But if it is an owned home, will she be able to answer promptly the question as to its value?

That is not always so easy, it

XENIA STUDENT ON SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Miss Betty Montague, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Montague, W. Third St., Xenia, and student at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, has been named on the student election committee, appointed by Phillips Moulton, president of the student body at the school. It was announced here Thursday.

This committee, which will take office immediately, will have charge of all elections held by the university students.

must be confessed. She might do well to consult her husband in advance about it, and even he may not quite know what to say.

However, the census does not demand a value that is exact to the last dollar, or to the last $50 or $100. The approximate value, or a fair estimate, is enough for the purposes of the census—and that I believe every man, if not every woman, ought to be able to give.

It is most desirable that women inform themselves as thoroughly as possible about the census and husbands who gain such information in the source of their business or reading should tell the wife about it.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlite has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the large, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlite at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre. Adv.

HARMFUL GUM

HAS BEEN REMOVED FROM KOOLMOTOR Gasolene

EXCESSIVE gum in gasolene is harmful. Cities Service experts were among the first to recognize this fact—and among the first to overcome it.

Neither time, money nor effort has been spared to remove the harmful gum from Koolmotor Gasolene, the original high test, anti-knock green gas. A special process—the mini-gum process—is employed by Cities Service to reduce the gum content in Koolmotor Gasolene to a harmless minimum.

All this has been done for your benefit—to free you from the menace of sticky valves that steal your power and result in faulty engine performance and expensive repair bills.

Play safe—don't pay the penalty of gummed-up valves. Drive to your nearest Cities Service Station or dealer today for a tankful of Koolmotor Gasolene—the gas that is free from harmful gum.

PLUNKS WAY TO RADIO FAME

"Pinkie" Hunter Made Debut At Ice Cream Social In Wilmington—He's Famous Now

"I wanta go back, I wanta go back, I wanta go back to the farm."

This is Max "Pinkie" Hunter, former Wilmington boy, crooning at an ice cream festival at the First Presbyterian Church in Wilmington while he plunked his banjo.

That song dates him. It was long about 1915, the Clinton County air was clear and warm and "Pinkie" was scrubbed, starched and full of young hope for his public debut. Now he's the Rudy Vaile of the other around and about Cleveland, where he is heard almost nightly over radio station WTAM.

"He never studied music—just picked it up," says N. N. Hunter, Jamestown merchant, "Uncle Nat" to "Pinkie." Alma Sioux Scarberry, whose stories about radio entertainers have been appearing in this paper, tells about "Pinkie" in one of her articles, so now he's among the great.

Max Hunter was the son of the late Charley Hunter, of Jamestown, and is well known there although he spent his early life in Wilmington. His debut at the ice cream social won him applause and that probably started him on his musical road. His real name is Cartwright Maxwell Hunter, but they call him "Pinkie" because of the color of his hair. Otherwise he is thirty-one years old, blue-eyed, grumpy and always willing to sing whenever called on. He's gotten a lot heavier than he was when he used to sit in Peg Metzger's parlor and entertain the Sunday evening sweethearts or dawdle in front of the New Martin Hotel helping out the barber shop chords contributed by Joe Gorman, Ken Keer, or "Doc" Hale.

"Pinkie" graduated from high school in 1917 and went to work at Stockdale, Pa., for a coke company. He later enlisted in the Student Army Training Corps at Bucknell University but soon transferred to the artillery at Camp Taylor. In Toledo, later, "Pinkie" joined up with Ruvinsky's Toledo Club Orchestra and his banjo came in mighty handy. He plunked it for three years.

After which he got a job with a scale company there. But his heart ached for his old orchestra days so he up and formed his own band with Johnny Coleman. From there "Pinkie" went to Detroit and worked as an entertainer in cabarets and roadhouses. Then into vaudeville with Buddy Fisher and his Seven Collegians. In Detroit, shortly after, he received a wire from Emerson Gill to join him. And he has been with him since December 11, 1923. Says "Pinkie": "Looks like it might be a permanent job. My probation must be about up."

LATE CURTAIN ANNOUNCED FOR GUILD PLAY HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

"Miss Lulu Bett," final seasonal effort of the Xenia Little Theater Guild at the Opera House Friday night will start at 8:30 o'clock. The unusually late starting hour, announced by Miss Lorena Paulin, Guild president, Thursday, is due to the conflict with the annual "Know Your Schools" program in the public schools Friday evening. The late starting hour will permit patrons to visit the schools earlier in the evening and leave in time to see the complete performance of the Guild play. The play is based on the novel by Miss Zona Gale and features Miss Helen Santmyer in the title role.

POETIC PLEA

ATLANTA, May 1.—Evidently poetry is appropriate on all occasions. City Clerk Walter Taylor, facing a bribery trial here recently, confronted reporters with the poem "Let Me Set by the Side of the Road and Be a Friend to Man," when asked for a statement.

Others in the cast are: Mrs. Corinne Mason, Mrs. Steele Poague, Miss Mildred Mason, Miss Alsetta Gorham, H. E. Kiernan, H. A. Higgins, Frederick Anderson and Carlton Lunford. The cast will be costumed in the 1915 period when the war was just a vague possibility to the hide-bound middle-west and the radio had not brought its influence to bear on the habits and customs of the hinterland. Women players say their parts attired in the long skirts, high waist lines and lace jabots of the pre-revolution period in fashions and the male performers strut in high, hard collars and peg-topped pants. This is by way of warning to the audience for a home talent period play is likely to prove convulsive though not intended to be so.

DOWN GOES RENT

CLEVELAND, O., May 1.—Landlords who go around offering $15,000 a year decreases in rent aren't so abundant today and that's why it was news when the Hanna Building here offered the Cleveland Railway Company a $15,000 cut in rent recently, if it would consent to stay there instead of moving.

COURT DENIES INJUNCTION

Petition filed in Common Pleas Court Wednesday by W. H. Steed through Attorney F. L. Johnson, seeking to enjoin Sheriff Ohmer Tate and his deputies from further confiscation of a new type of baseball slot machines placed in operation in Greene County was dismissed the same day by Judge R. L. Gowdy, who held that one of these mint-vending machines recently confiscated from D. A. Regan, Fairfield filling station proprietor, is a gambling device.

Judge Gowdy refused to allow a temporary restraining order and then overruled a motion for a new trial. Attorney Johnson immediately gave notice of appeal to the Greene County Court of Appeals.

TRAFFIC LAWS IN VILLAGE ENFORCED

The Greene County Auto Club issued a warning to motorists Thursday to drive carefully through Yellow Springs because the streets are patrolled and traffic regulations are being strictly enforced. The auto club has furnished the village with stop signs, school zone signs and twenty-mile speed limit signs. Autoists who park illegally, speed, or who fail to display a tail light on their cars, drive with only one head light or no head lights are being cited into court.

COURT OF APPEALS SUSTAINS VERDICT ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Fine of $200 and costs imposed upon Mrs. Sylvia Null, Osborn, by Probate Judge S. C. Wright in April, 1929 on a conviction for possessing liquor was sustained by the Court of Appeals Thursday.

Armed with a search warrant, an officer had followed Mrs. Null to her home and after some difficulty gained admittance. She was seen in possession of a pitcher from which she was pouring its contents. A small amount of liquid that remained was confiscated and was later identified to be corn liquor.

The claim of Mrs. Null, on which she based her appeal, was that her husband, Homer, had been ill, that he needed and used liquor for medicinal purposes, that he was unable to afford liquor procured by prescription, that he had purchased and brought the liquor in question into the house, that it was his and that his wife, in pouring it out was only trying to protect her husband. Her husband was away from home when the raid was made.

It developed that previous searches of the house had been made and that in the basement of the residence a number of new half-pint bottles was discovered.

Notwithstanding the law that the husband is the head of the house and presumed to be in possession of the articles therein, the appellate court held that this is not an irrebuttable presumption and that the truth of the explanation which Mrs. Null gave was a matter for determination by the trial judge.

There is no doubt that Mrs. Null had actual possession of the liquor in question, the court ruled in deciding that other circumstances in the case justified the trial judge in holding that she, within the contemplation of the law, possessed the liquor.

Attorney F. L. Johnson represented Mrs. Null.

JOINT CONVICTION OF PAIR REVERSED BY APPEALS COURT

Because of refusal of the trial court to permit the introduction of defense testimony intended to impeach and discredit the principal state witness, the Greene County Court of Appeals has reversed the joint conviction in Common Pleas Court of Forest Nooks, colored, and Samuel Wallace, on charges of grand larceny.

The case was re-arraigned for re-trial.

Nooks and Wallace were jointly indicted, tried and convicted in October, 1929 for the alleged theft of forty chickens valued at $40 from Leonard Platter on the night of last September 8. Each was sentenced to serve from one to seven years in Ohio Penitentiary.

At their trial the defendants offered to show by the testimony of five witnesses, including the wife of Forest Nooks, that the colored man was at the home of John Tate from Saturday, September 7 to Monday morning, and that he did not at any time leave this place during the period when it was charged the chickens in question were stolen.

An attempt was also made to show by the testimony of two witnesses that Wallace was also at his home at the time, for the purpose of indicating the whereabouts of both defendants and to disprove the testimony of John Palmer, principal witness for the prosecution.

The state objected to introduction of this testimony on the ground the evidence tended to prove an alibi for both men and that the provisions of the law stipulating notice of alibi must be given to the prosecuting attorney three days previous to the trial, had not been complied with.

The appellate court held that the testimony, it must be admitted, would tend to prove an alibi for the defendants but that it was not offered for that purpose but was designed to impeach the testimony of the star state witness.

In commenting upon this point the appeals court said: "It must be conceded that without the testimony of Palmer a conviction could not be obtained and we cannot escape the conclusion that Nooks and Wallace were deprived of a substantial right by reason of exclusion of the testimony in question.

"It is true the testimony would tend to prove an alibi, but the rule is well settled in this state that where testimony is competent for one purpose it must be admitted, and its application may be limited to that purpose."

The trial court, it was pointed out, would have been justified in instructing the jury that the testimony of these witnesses could be used solely for the purpose of impeaching or contradicting the testimony of the witness Palmer. It being competent for that purpose its entire exclusion was prejudicial to the rights of Nooks and Wallace, the higher court ruled. Entertaining this view, the judgment of the lower court was ordered reversed.

Attorney Frank H. Dean represented Nooks and Wallace.

APPEAL DENIED IN LIQUOR CASE FROM MAYOR'S DECISION

Holding that a mayor's court is not a court of record and that the appellate court would therefore be without jurisdiction to review a judgment direct from a mayor's court, the Greene County Court of Appeals denied Thursday a motion filed by Attorney Sully Jaymes, of Springfield, colored, Yellow Springs, seeking permission to file a petition in error from Pettiford's conviction on a charge of selling liquor.

Pettiford was convicted of the liquor charge under a village ordinance by Mayor D. H. Pittz, Yellow Springs, who fined him $300 and costs.

Attorney Jaymes thereupon filed a motion asking leave of the appellate court to file a petition in error direct in this court without the formality of prosecuting error to Common Pleas Court.

The principal question raised by Attorney J. A. Finney, Xenia, counsel for the village, related to the jurisdiction of the appeals court to entertain the motion to review a judgment direct from the mayor's court of the village.

Citing a previous decision involving a liquor law violation, which was concurred in by all the judges of the Ohio Supreme Court, the appeals court pointed out that the appellate court would clearly have the right to review a judgment of a mayor of a village.

However, the supreme court subsequently handed down another decision which overruled the previous finding of the same court and holds that a justice of the peace is not a court of record, and that since the jurisdiction of a mayor is held to be that of a justice of the peace, an appellate court is without jurisdiction to review a case directly from either court.

HOUSE DAMAGED BY EARLY MORNING FIRE

Damage estimated by firemen at $200 was caused by fire which gutted a portion of a one-story three-room frame dwelling at 1228 Third St., occupied by Mrs. Mary Morgan, colored, at 12:50 a. m. Thursday.

Mrs. Morgan and her son were in Springfield and the house was unoccupied when the blaze broke out in a bedroom in the south-west corner of the residence. Origin of the blaze which damaged the building to the extent of $175 and caused $25 damage to contents has not been determined by firemen, who quenched the flames without difficulty. The roof over the bedroom was burned away.

FEN MUTINY BROKEN BY ORDER ENFORCED BY NATIONAL GUARD

The "better element" among the prisoners were put in the stockade. This consists of a barbed wire enclosure, erected by the military on the baseball diamond in the prison yard. Inside the stockade eighty-eight army tents have been pitched. The men were sheltered last night eight to a tent, and in some instances ten to a tent.

All were searched carefully. Some of the convicts did not relish being frisked but it was all in a day's work to the doughboys.

The soldiers will remain on guard indefinitely. Colonel Haubrich announced. There is a lot of work yet to be accomplished.

All talk of "passive resistance"—and any other kind of resistance for that matter—disappeared when the mailed fist of the military was suddenly brought down last evening as the shades of darkness fell over the antiquated and overcrowded bastle. The 3,900 convicts, aroused over the death of 320 fellow prisoners in the Easter Monday night fire disaster, had been insisting they would not conform to prison policy while Preston Thomas remained as warden.

But Colonel Haubrich decided the time had come when the meetings of the convicts in the cell blocks was to be broken up. So he sent his troops in to bring them out and put them in their new quarters where he could keep a vigilant eye on their every move.

First of all the guardsmen went to the "White City" cell block where the "tough babies" hung out, so to speak. And they came out, pronto—the entire 1,300 in that section.

About 660 of this group were placed in the stockade. The agitators and trouble makers—the so-called "bad boys"—were marched to the old fat warehouse, the "coal gang," comprised of Negro prisoners was moved into the idle house.

Other cell blocks, too, were cleaned out. Forty-five tubercular prisoners were given preferred quarters in the chapel.

Armed guardsmen were massed for action while this procedure was carried out. Some of them had tear gas bombs and hand grenades. There was no demonstration, however.

Large floodlights illuminated the interior of the prison as the work of transferring the convicts proceeded.

Today, for the first time since the disastrous fire an inspection of the cell blocks was made. It was discovered that in the basement of the "white city" cell block an attempt had been made to dig a tunnel toward the street that faces the prison.

Sledge hammers, saws, bars and pieces of lead pipe were also found. A pile of lock pins, taken from the locks on the cell doors was discovered. A hole had been cut in a cell wall toward a ventilator—apparently another scheme to escape.

Work will be started at once to repair the broken cell doors and parts. When this is accomplished the prisoners will be moved back and locked in the cells. They had not been locked up since the night of the fire. They had been roaming all over the cell ranges, cooking up schemes among themselves to escape.

Colonel Haubrich took precautions today for any possible "May Day" demonstration. A telegram had been received at national guard headquarters from Cleveland signed "The Committee" bearing this terse message: "On to Columbus!"

"When a village like Fairfield undertakes to exempt from the operation of these statutes, the territory of the village, and make it lawful for anyone within the village to violate these sections of the statute, we think the ordinance of the village of Fairfield would be in contravention of the general act, and would necessarily be unlawful, for otherwise the ordinance of every small village or even city might be enacted not only in opposition to these state statutes but in opposition to other state criminal regulations and thereby interfere materially with the enforcement of state laws. We are therefore clear that these ordinances are invalid."

The Theater

Miss Helen Santmyer, novelist, will interpret the most famous character of another woman novelist when she plays the name part in "Miss Lulu Bett" at the Opera House Friday night, last offering of the Theater Guild this season.

The play is adapted from the novel of the same name written by Miss Zona Gale, who is known intimately to several Xenians including Mr. and Mrs. Findley M. Torrence, N. King St., whom she has visited.

Miss Santmyer, herself the author of two novels, will also find herself in much the same position as George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, the now-famous playwrights, when they produced their first play. Kaufman was dramatic critic on the New York Times and Connelly had the same title on some such trade magazine as the "Garment News" or words to that effect.

For years the pair of them had panned with scant praise the current offerings of the Broadway stage. In answer to the plaint: "If you don't like it why don't you write something better," they launched into a play writing partnership that was not only most successful but produced some of the best contemporary plays. Since then they split, although still friends, and Connelly has gone on to even greater heights with his "The Green Pastures," now current.

Miss Santmyer was pressed into the role of critic for the last two Guild performances, and now finds herself cast for a part with the same group. Russell Crouse stepped from his repertorial desk to a part in a Broadway play last season and Miss Santmyer's friends believe she can not only do the same thing but carry it off with success.

This department, at the risk of becoming a graveyard for passing theaters, must record the end of the old Lubin in Cincinnati, first theater there built exclusively for motion pictures.

The Lubin is now dark after a long career that began in 1907 when it superseded the theaters started in storerooms and bore out

CLAIMS U. S. DOES NOT HAVE ENOUGH VETS' HOSPITALS

OAKLAND, Cal., May 1.—The federal government stands accused of failure to provide adequate hospital facilities for disabled World War veterans.

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, made the accusation in his address before legionnaires at the Oakland veterans memorial building recently.

Veterans who have committed no crime, but are ill, are held in chains in this country because there are no facilities for them in hospitals, Bodenhamer said.

He urged immediate passage of the American Legion bill now pending in congress which provides for the relief of $4,000 cases of disabled veterans.

"Any further delay in the passage of that bill would be deplorable," he declared.

Bodenhamer's address, in part, follows:

"It is a fact that World War Veterans with honorable records of war service who have committed no crime, are held in country and city jails because they cannot be cared for in government hospitals. And because state institutions are overcrowded to an appalling extent.

"This is a federal problem. Despite the hospital construction bill passed just before Christmas, little relief can be expected under a minimum of two years. Hospital construction does not begin with the passage of an appropriation bill.

"Weeks and months of delay must pass before the sites for hospitals are chosen. In most instances there is a scramble among the politicians to get the hospitals for their own districts.

"In view of this unfair neglect of the disabled, the legion favors a hospital policy to meet future needs.

"Seventy-one veterans die each day. These men die on the field of honor, just as surely as did those men who who fell at Flanders field.

"What is the government going to do to appease their pain?"

CHINATOWN SET AGOG BY DIVORCE

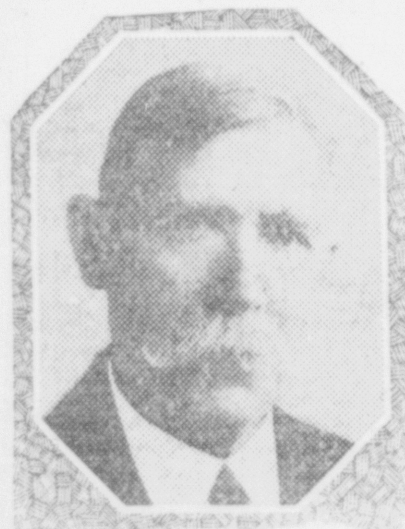

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—Grant Avenue, "Main Street" of San Francisco's Chinatown, gasped when Mrs. Violet Tung, socially prominent young matron, sued her husband, Henry Tung, for divorce, and charged he carried on an illicit romance with a white woman, Mildred Smiszer, Hollywood motion picture actress.

Miss Smiszer, Mrs. Tung charged wrote sizzling letters to Tung and the latter carried them around in his clothes. Mrs. Tung found them.

KONJOLA ENDS SEVEN YEARS OF SUFFERING

Cincinnati Man Describes Amazing Experience With New Medicine—All Else Failed

"I am proud to claim Cincinnati as my home, for it is the home of Konjola, the master medicine," said Mr. August Meyer, 1336 Clay St., Cincinnati. "For seven years I was in ill health. My stomach and liver were out of order, and the poisons in my system brought on rheumatism and neuritis. I got worse every day, losing weight and strength. Dizzy spells and headaches were part of my life. Pains racked my body and made it almost impossible for me to do my work.

"But after everything else I tried had failed, I started the Konjola treatment. After taking several bottles, my system was cleansed and invigorated. The poisons were swept away and all my ills disappeared. I am free of indigestion, dizzy spells and all pains. Life has once again become worth living and I know that it was Konjola alone that made it possible for me to enjoy glorious health again."

Each of Konjola's ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of natural plants combined with other recognized medicinal elements has a special duty to perform on the ailing organs. Many who have given it a fair trial (six to eight bottles) have declared there is no other medicine like it.

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Konjola is sold in Xenia, Ohio at the Gallaher Drug Store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

VITAMINS INFLUENCE SEASONAL GROWTH OF CHILDREN

One of the most interesting questions, "When do children grow the most?" the answer would probably be influenced by the number of times she has had to lengthen her shoes or the number of pairs of shoes Jimmy has outgrown. These are significant indications of growth to the parent. Are the clothes more likely to be outgrown at one time of the year than another?

A number of studies have been made to determine whether children grow more rapidly at one season than another. Such studies have been carried on since 1833 with somewhat conflicting results.

Recent work, however, indicates that the summer and early fall months are most favorable to growth of children. A group of Columbus children whose height and weight have been measured every month for almost three years, increased in height and weight faster during the summer months than during any other period of the year, according to Miss Hughina McKay of the Home Economics Department of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

One of the factors influencing this accelerated growth during the summer is probably the length of time children spend out-of-doors in that season. Children who average two to four hours daily out-of-doors during the winter averaged seven to ten hours out-of-doors each day during the summer and early fall. The fact that summer sunshine is richer in ultraviolet rays than is winter sunshine undoubtedly influenced the growth. Although the food eaten by the children studied varied little throughout the year, there is the possibility that foods may vary in vitamin content from season to season. Thus eggs of the winter diet may be less valuable in influencing growth than eggs of the summer diet. Similarly, green leaves, milk, butter, and other foods usually found in children's diets may vary in vitamin content from season to season.
